

October 31, 2008

Should voters support embryonic research?

Support ethical research

An ad opposing embryonic stem cell research in Michigan, disgracefully suggesting that it would lead to a repeat of the horrific Tuskegee experiments, is a new low. Stem cell research is one of the best new hopes for breakthrough cures and treatments for many diseases and injuries.

Furthermore, the federal government regulates all human subjects' research, ensuring that it is beneficially and ethically conducted under the oversight of institutional review boards.

Michigan citizens should support stem cell research.

*Robert Sokol, M.D.
Wayne State University
Professor, Ob/gyn*

*Jeff Loeb
Wayne State University,
Professor of Neurology*

*Gloria Heppner
Wayne State University,
Professor Internal Medicine
Detroit*