Wayne State to host seminar on stem-cell research May 7

By Andrew Dietderich

5:00 pm, April 3, 2007

The science, politics, ethics and economics of stem-cell research are scheduled to be the main topics at an upcoming meeting at Wayne State University.

The event is scheduled for May 7.

It will be hosted by the Wayne State School of Medicine Center for Molecular Medicine and Genetics in coordination with the Michigan Citizens for Stem Cell Research and Cures.

Speakers scheduled to appear are:

- Marcia Baum, executive director of the Michigan Citizens for Stem Cell Research and Cures.
- Sean Morrison, director of the University of Michigan Center for Stem Cell Biology.
- Former U.S. Rep. Joe Schwarz.
- Dorothy Nelson, assistant vice president in the office of the vice president for research at WSU.
- Randal Charlton, founder and CEO of Detroit-based Asterand plc and entrepreneur-in-residence and special assistant to the president for economic development at WSU and interim director of Tech Town.
- Jeffrey Loeb, associate professor in neurology and The Center for Molecular Medicine at the WSU School of Medicine.

The event runs from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and is scheduled to be held at the Green Auditorium at the Scott Hall of Basic Medical Sciences, 540 E. Canfield Ave., Detroit. There is no cost to attend.

More information and RSVPs may be obtained by calling Deidre Turner at (313) 577-9019.
